"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."

MANY persons are under the impression that Ivory Soap is expensive, and intended for the use of the wealthy only. The fact is, the price is lower than for ordinary soaps, quality considered, for in the "Ivory" no "cheapeners" or "makeweights" are used, so the buyer gets all "true soap" for her money. Its harmlessness, durability and efficiency admit of its being used for all purposes with equal satisfaction and economy in the families of the rich or poor.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

ESTIMATING FLOOD LOSSES

WHAT THE RETURNS FOR LYCOMING AND CLINTON COUNTIES SHOW.

A correspondent of the Press has made an estimate of the flood losses on the West Branch. Below is the result of his investigations:

The dwellers along the West Branch of the Susquehanna from Sunbury up to the region round about Renovo have only now contrived to get a clear notion of their property losses by the freshet of last month. They put them at $10,000,000. The estimate is regarded as conservative, even low.

The great bulk of these losses will fall on Clinton and Lycoming counties, though Northumberland loses much. What the counties beyond Clinton have suffered has not even been included in this computation, which covers the territory in which the flood wrought its greatest wreck. How the counties will stand the effect of these great blows, is what none venture to predict with confidence. A few business men have gone under. Prudent people look for a few more failures, but they hope that with the recuperative resources which the region possesses, and with patience, economy and extra exertion, everything will come out well in the end. Men who lost the savings of years in the rush of water, and saw themselves in an hour thrust far back in the race for prosperity, were naturally for a time depressed and blue. But the old spirit begins to reassert itself and all about this region one hears men, who only a few weeks ago were in despair, now unrolling plans, which they are confident will wipe out the past and build them up once more. It is a good sign. It is half the battle for recovery.

THE CLINTON COUNTY LOSSES.

After dwellings and houses had been put in such order as might be when the flood had gone down, and private affairs had been adjusted there naturally was a wish to know what the aggregate loss had been. The relief committee, with Mayor George Mason, an old Girard College boy, at its head, having attended to the immediate needs of the sufferers sent out all through the county blanks asking for a return in figures of the extent of the damage. The returns, according to a request contained in the form, were sworn to. They were summed and tabulated by S. D. Ball and C. D. McCormick, who comprise a sub-committee.

The report shows that the sworn losses in the county amount to $960,622. The report runs:

The figures are exclusive altogether of the losses in lumber. Besides, the committees, in their report, say of their figures: "They give considerable evidence of the great losses sustained by our people, but they come far short of the real loss, for we know that many of our citizens who lost heavily have not as yet made out statements of their losses."

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Ball, chatting of the matter, "those figures represent in the main, at least as to Lock Haven, the losses of the poorer people. Few of the more prosperous and the rich filled in the blanks or would make any statement at all. Perhaps it was because they neither desired nor would ask aid. From what I know personally, we might safely double the figures here given as to Lock Haven's losses. In the remainder of the county, also, immense losses have gone unrecorded, because those who suffered them did not care to fill in the blanks. Whole stretches of farming land have been ruined at least for this season, and in places the destruction has been so complete that property has been wiped out of existence and the very face of the country changed. What many of the farmers will do these coming months is a matter for serious consideration. The losses in lumber—logs and manufactured timber—it is thought by conservative men, who have had years of experience in the business will amount to $100,000. One firm figures out its gross loss, it is said, at more than $50,000. Of course a part of the gross loss will be recovered. What the per centage of recovery will be, will depend altogether on circumstances, and will, it is thought, vary from 20 per cent. to 80."

LYCOMING'S LOSSES.

City Controller George, of Williamsport, took charge of the work of ascertain the loss of Lycoming county. The work was also conducted on the system of blanks filled in and sworn to. Mr. George's report to Judge Cummin, president of the Relief Committee, is as follows:

	Claims.	Losses.
From Waterville, Cummings and Brown	33	$44,125
Muncy and Muncy Creek,	45	22,594
Nisbonrose and Antestorte	41	74,310
Montgomery and Clinton,	46	53,153 50
Jersey Shore and Porter's	121	85,872
Millin and Salladorsburg,	26	25,929
South Williamsport,	85	43,965
English Centre and Pine,	39	22,000
Miscellaneous, mostly damages to farms,	123	133,181 33
Williamsport,	1199	939,089 65
Total,	1788	$1,433,099 48

These figures, similarly to those of the committee at Lock Haven, are to be taken rather as mere suggestions than as bottom facts. A very large proportion of the people neglected or declined to fill in the blanks sent them. In Williamsport alone I have seen private and trustworthy figures of losses to storekeepers and manufacturers amounting to $1,460,800 that are not included in the formal report at all. Even those are not given as completely supplementing those in the report. The lumber losses in logs and manufactured work are put down by good judges at four million dollars. The boom keeper at Williamsport is quoted as saying that 300,000,000 feet of logs went over the boom. If so, careful judges say, much of the timber must have floated down with the waters from up-country creeks, as, in their judgment, there could not have been so much timber in the river.

What percentage of value will be saved by the box sale of part of the logs and the bringing back of another part, all under the guidance of the Lumberman's Exchange, at Williamsport, is an uncertain matter. Mr. Prior, of the Exchange, in reply to the question as to whether he thought 25 per cent would be saved, replied only, "It is quite possible." The gross loss of only one of the leading lumbermen is said to be put down by himself at $365,000. It is thought that the loss to farmers along the river and creeks has been very much larger than the sworn figures in Mr. George's report would indicate. There is no insurance against loss by flood carried in this region.

IN NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Milton was the worst used of any of the places. Although it is now booming with its accustomed go, its people do not hesitate to say that they feel the burden of their losses, and expect to feel them more keenly later. Ever since the flood the town has been endeavoring to foot up its losses, and although day after day new losses appear that at first escaped attention, substantially the whole is now known.

Estimates of careful business men whom I saw do not vary widely. One of the most conservative and judged, after wide and careful inquiry, one of the best, is given by R. F. Wilson, chairman of the Executive Relief Committee. It is this: Merchandise loss, $2500; furniture, musical instruments in private houses, etc., $20,000; repairs to buildings, dwellings, fences, etc., $15,000; landed property in the nature of lots below Market Street swept away, $50,000; driving bridge across the river, $75,000; total, $185,000.

The loss in lot value is a curious outcome. The river bent in just at Market Street, and for a distance of two blocks swept along in oblique direction, carrying away the back part of lots upon which rows of houses stood. A bend a little further in and the houses must have gone, too. Today the houses stand almost on the edge of the newly created bank. What the future fate of these dwellings may be will depend on the next caprice of the Susquehanna. The buildings were mostly owned by the hard-working and thrifty people who occupied them. The stock of the toll bridge referred to in this estimate was all owned at Milton.

Watsontown did not suffer much. The lower end of Lewisburg was under water and the damage to household goods was considerable but not severe. At the pretty little village of White Deer Mills the first floors of the two village stores were flooded to a distance of two feet above the counters. They lost about $700 each. Over at Allenwood, H. P. Allen, who has a farm near the bank as well as a store in the village, had his farm buildings damaged, and lost some agricultural implement, amounting altogether to about $500. The village stands back from the river and was practically uninjured. Montoursville, a pretty village of 500 or 600 lying at the mouth of the Loyal Sock Creek and the West Branch, suffered in household goods and buildings probably to the extent of $3000 or $4000. Northumberland was not much damaged. At Sunbury, the losses according to Chief Burgess Cadwallader did not aggregate much over $1000.

Perpetual Guests.

Buddhist priests, in order to confirm the faith of the lower classes in China, are in the habit or inserting into the shell of the young pearl oyster minute representations of their deities, which are, in process of time, completely covered by the formation of the shell, so that when it is opened, it contains the features of the gods indelibly fixed in mother-of-pearl.

Horticulturists produce similar lasting effects on their plants. A gourd, while young and green, is tied at a certain point with a ribbon, and when hard and old, still retains the unnatural shape thus given to it.

A few drops of a drug are poured about the roots of a young plant, and its flowers henceforth bloom with a color unknown to any of its species.

Precisely the same process goes on in a girl or boy in the formation of habits, good or bad.

"There is but one thing which time cannot kill," says Poyntz, "and that is habit."

"Grace," said the old preacher Bascom, "can conquer the devil in you. But your bad habits conquer grace."

No matter how trivial or slight the custom acquired in youth may be, though it be but the mispronunciation of a word, vulgarity at table, or the use of slang, it will come back in after life, after years of schooling and struggling with it, fresh and vigorous; just as old men, in extreme illness, speak the language of their childhood, forgotten through all their middle age,

A habit of gentle bearing, of low, pleasant intonation, of universal courtesy, is worth more to its possessor throughout life than wealth or great talents. It smoothes one's way at every turn, and creates friends who take pleasure in ministering to one who is polite and considerate, not by effort, but because habit has made it natural for him to be so.

A habit of prayer, formed in childhood, though neglected for many years will come back in age and sorrow and perhaps bring a blessing from heaven with it.

Our habits, in short, are the alien guests of the Scotch superstition which once seated at our hearth only go from it with death. Let us take care, then, how we open our doors to them.

If you note all the details you have not seen the whole.

HUMAN SACRIFICE IN AFRICA.

ATROCIOUSLY CRUEL BURIAL RITES AT THE GRAVE OF A KING.

The steamer Congo brings news from New Calabar of most revolting sacrifice. It seems that a few months ago the old King of Eboe died, and, as is customary in that part of the country, the traders from New Calabar went up to pay their respects to the new monarch. The traders were aware that for a short time after the old King's death the "Iu Iu" rites are performed, but they thought that these were over. The deceased monarch's name was Imphy, and to the honor of the English traders the "Iu Iu" ceremonies were at their highest when they entered Eboe town.

The rites had been in operation for about two months, and already about forty had been slain to appease "Iu Iu" gods. The old King was then lying in a grave which had been dug for him. The hole was a large one and deep. Lying in the same grave were nine of the King's youngest wives, and their deaths had been brought about in the most cruel manner. Each of the poor creatures had both their wrists and ankles broken, so that they could neither walk nor crawl. In this state, and suffering the most excruciating pain, the unfortunate creatures were placed at the bottom of the grave, seven of them lying side by side. The body of the King was then laid on them in a transverse direction. The two remaining women were laid down by the side of the King, lying exactly like the monarch's body. No food or water was given to the poor creatures, who were left in that position to die. It is said that death did not, as a rule, take place for four or five days. Four men were stationed round the grave, armed with clubs, ready to knock back with these weapons any of the women who, notwithstanding their maimed condition, were able to crawl to the side of the grave.

In other parts of the town other human sacrifices were taking place. Suspended from various trees were the bodies of several men. These poor fellows were also enduring the most agonizing death. In most instances holes were bored through their feet just by their ankles. Through the holes ropes were drawn, and the men were then tied to a high tree. Their heads were of course, hanging downward. The men were there left to die. The traders, as they were proceeding along, were unwilling witnesses of a frightful sacrificial execution. They saw a number of natives in a group, and went to the spot to see what was taking place. There to their horror the white men saw a native tied by the feet and neck. The rope attached to the neck was thrown over a tree in one direction, and the rope attached to the feet was tied to a tree in the opposite direction. The ropes were then drawn tightly, and when the body was distended to its utmost length another native with a hatchet struck the neck and severed the head from the body. The head was taken to the grave where the King was lying, while the body was eaten by the cannibal natives. The white men could do nothing to stop the barbarous practices, as to interfere with these "religious customs" would not be tolerated by the natives, and the lives of the traders would have been in peril. They, therefore, made as quick a retreat from the town as they could. The traders learned that for each of the following ten months there was to be a sacrifice of seven men.—London Standard.

A Queer Bit of History.

HOW THE BRITISH FLEET WAS THREATENED WITH A COWHIDE.

During the war of 1812 a Montauk cattle keeper gained a signal victory of the English fleet, then lying in Gardiner's Bay under command of Admiral Hardy. Montauk was then a commons for the towns of East and Southampton. The town people pastured 1000 or 1200 head of cattle on Montauk during the Summer. These cattle were in charge of three keepers who lived about three miles apart. I think the name of the keeper in question was Pain. He conquered the English fleet with a canoe, a rawhide and a crew of Indians. It came thus about:

The English had come ashore on their boats and killed one of the cattle in his charge. They wanted fresh beef and they got it. Mr. Pain did not propose that his herds should be ravaged with impunity. He armed himself with a raw-hide. Next he found an Indian. He impressed the Indian with his rawhide and forced him to paddle off to the Admiral's ship. Mr. Pain was hailed from the ship and asked what he wanted. He said he wanted to come on board. He was allowed to come on board.

He was then asked what he wanted. He wanted to see the Admiral. What did he want to see the Admiral for? To be paid for one of the cattle in his care which had been slain by the Admiral's people. What was he going to do about it in case he was not paid? they inquired. Well, he was going to take it out of the English fleet. What was he going to take it out with? With his rawhide.

The Admiral was informed that a Yankee was on board threatening to lick the fleet with an armament of one canoe, one Indian and a rawhide. The Admiral was not alarmed, but he was amused and interested. He came on deck in his cocked hat and epaulettes and all the glitter and glory of the titled British tar of eighty odd years ago.

The Admiral and Mr. Paine confronted each other. Mr. Paine did not back down. He repeated his demand and his threat.

"Well," said the Admiral, "you are the bravest Yankee I've seen yet."

He ordered him to be paid. Mr. Paine received the value of the slain beast in hard, shining, yellow, British gold. Then with his force he rowed ashore, having gained a brave but bloodless victory.

Opie and the Butcher.

MARVELOUS TRANSFORMATION SCENE CAUSED BY A $150 CHECK.

Opie P. Read, the genius of the Arkansas Traveler, is so very excellent a financier that he usually manages to end each month a little deeper in debt than he began it. Yet nobody ever loses by him. In some manner, though his general indebtness keeps piling up, he manages not to let any individual debt stand long. We shouldn't like to be pressed for a logical explanation of this paradoxical assertion, but it seems, nevertheless, to be true that while his aggregate indebtedness keeps growing his individual debtors are never permitted to lose anything.

One morning Opie came into the Chicago Press Club rooms, where a number of the members were seated chattering. Opie did not take part in the conversation, but sat by one of the open windows smoking his huge pipe and evidently thinking profoundly.

"Something on your mind, Opie?" asked one of the boys.

"Yes. My butcher is on my mind, and he's the biggest butcher you ever saw. If I didn't have a ponderous mind I never could hold that butcher on it. Look at me," said he, standing up at full height, showing a form more than six feet tall; and massive in its proportions. "Look at me; I'm a pretty big man myself, but, sir, as I came by that butcher shop this morning the butcher was standing out in front, and I walked right between his legs. The top of my head wasn't as high as his instep. I should have to reach up to unlatch his shoe."

"How much do you owe your butcher, Opie?" asked James W. Scott, the president of the club and business manager of the Herald.

"A hundred and twenty dollars, sir," said Mr. Read.

That afternoon Mr. Read sent a check for $150 to Opie, saying it was an advance on a story he wished him to write for the Herald.

The next morning, when Opie strode into the club, somebody asked:

"Has your butcher grown any since yesterday?"

"Grown! No, Sir. This morning I walked into his place with $150 in gold clinking and jingling in my pocket."

"Where's that butcher?" I asked.

"Here I am," said a faint, timid little voice that seemed to come up from the cellar.

"Where?" said I.

"Here, right here by your left foot. Don't move or you'll step on me."

"I got down on my hands and knees and examined a speck on the floor. It was the butcher."

A Startling Discovery.

According to reports from Paris published in the Courier des Etats-Unis Dr. Brown-Sequard has formally announced to a French scientific body the discovery by himself of what appears to be an elixir of life as potent as that which Bulwer dallied with in "Zanoni" and Margrave used in "A Strange Story."

The discovery is of a medicament which, when administered by hypodermic injection, restores the aged and decrepid to youthful vigor and sets lingering convalescents upon their legs again, as so many nostrums are alleged to do but do not.

We fail to grasp with clearness whether Dr. Brown-Sequard hopes to prolong human life indefinitely or not, and probably his experiments have not yet enabled him to express a confident opinion on that subject. But if his elixir can make the old young again there seems to be no satisfactory reason—barring accident—why anybody who keeps his hands off the electric-light wires should cease to live.

At first sight the news of such a discovery seems altogether good. It will remove the cemetery factor from water supply problems, settle the cremation question and exterminate the race of undertakers. But there are other aspects of the matter which are appalling. The pressure of population upon the means of subsistence is very great, though not so great as Mr. Malthus anticipated, and if the safety-valve of the death-rate is to be shut down this little world of ours is going to be very uncomfortably crowded.

A more dreadful thought is that all the objectionable persons we know are sure to be the first users of the new elixir. Objectionable persons, as the reader must have observed, are the very tardiest of all human beings in dying, and as a rule they obstinately refuse to give up the ghost until it is too late for their departure to relieve or comfort anybody. Armed with Dr. Brown-Sequard's elixir they would never consent to die at all.

No, life is distressingly short and we often wish for a longer lien upon it, but the price exacted even for prolonged existence, with youth and health for appurtenances, may be too high, and unless a considerable proportion of every man's acquaintances can be enjoined against the use of the new elixir the public will not regard Dr. Brown-Sequard as a benefactor.—World.

The negro population of Mississippi is increasing at a much faster rate than the white. In 1870 the number of negroes in the State was 445,080, and of whites 384,549. In 1880 the negroes numbered 653,550, and the whites only 481,028.

According to a statistical document lately published in Paris, there are in Europe 300,000 blind people, 30,000 of whom are in France.

A new occupation for women is that of superintendent of a visiting list. She arranges names in alphabetical order, with marginal notes of "at home" days.

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

As a rule, a person who has a good appetite has good health. But how many there are who enjoy nothing they eat, and sit down to meals only as an unpleasant duty. Nature's antidotes for this condition are so happily combined in Hoods Sarsaparilla that it soon restores good digestion, creates an appetite, and renovates and vitalizes the blood so that the beneficial effect of good food is imparted to the whole body. Truly hunger is the best sauce, and Hood's Sarsaparilla induces hunger.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Army Floral Association, just organized in London, propose to set up disabled or poverty-stricken veterans in the business of selling flowers on the streets. The veterans are to be provided with glass-covered barrows like green-houses, on wheels.

The very latest attack of jewel mania experienced among certain Englishmen of rank is the wearing of bracelets made of hair from the tip of an elephant's tail. This portion of the elephantine narrative has under the demand assumed an almost priceless value. The circles are most exquisitely mounted in gold and silver.

An eccentric German has created a sensation at Mount Holly by announcing that he has offered his will for probate in order to have his estate settled up during his life time. A clause in the instrument provides that one-half of his estate shall go to his wife as long as she remains his widow, and when she marries again the other half shall be paid her, "as it costs more to keep two than one."

The largest moccasin snake on record has been found near Lake Okeechobee, Fla. When found it had just completed the task of swallowing a ten foot alligator, and was therefore unable to make his escape. He was captured with great difficulty, and only "gave up the ghost" after receiving twenty-seven shots from a Winchester rifle.

A rumor comes from the Dead river logging camps in Maine that two trout fishermen recently resurrected a curious relic of antiquity from beneath the placid waters of the Carrying Place ponds. The story goes that they had finished fishing and were about to start for their camp, when they found themselves unable to raise their anchor from the bottom. The rope was strong, however, and, redoubling their efforts, they pulled to the surface a rude shallop, partially filled with stones, which had caught upon one point of the wooden killock. The boat is supposed to be one of those used by Benedict Arnold in his daring but fruitless effort to capture Quebec.

Gen. Boulanger now occupies a house in London formerly tenanted by the Austrian millionaire, d'Arcey and evidently furnished by its original owner, Col. Ellis. By strange coincidence, says Edmund Yates in a 'Tril bune' special, a great bust of Napoleon I immediately faces the door of the General's study. Figures of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette adorn the over-mantel, and in the drawing-room the first things which meet the eye are the features of Napoleon III and Empress Eugenie. Colonel Ellis seems to have taken a benevolent interest in French history, and the General's French visitors insist on regarding the relics in the light of a favorable omen.

An exhibition of nerve that's rarely excelled was given recently by a Trenton woman. She made a tour of the offices in the State House there, asking subscription for a bicycle for her son, who is very fond of bicycle riding. She said that "she could not very well see how she could afford to purchase one, and as her son was of noble birth, he should enjoy the advantages that more fortunate boys enjoyed." She could not induce the "stony-hearted" State officials to put down their names, however, and she left the capital building lamenting the fact that people generally were loth to give for a worthy purpose.

The story is going the rounds of a retail dealer who obtained a rare bargain in ladies' hemstitched linen handkerchiefs, which he designed to sell at a fair profit at 25 cents each. On examination of the goods he determined not to give such value for so small a sum. Taking one-half this lot, he marked each handkerchief in the corner with a lead pencil, 25 cents, and the other quality, he marked in the same way, 30 cents, and displayed the goods on his counter side by side. Imagine his surprise when he found that two out of three of his lady customers selected the bargains at 30 cents, leaving him with the larger part of those marked 25 cents on his counter. As it was impossible to alter marks from 25 to 30 without soiling the goods, he was actually compelled to purchase another invoice of the same lot to oblige the fair buyers, who preferred to pay 30 cents for the article rather than 25 cents.

A remarkable discovery has just been made at the Cathays Yard of the Taff Vale Railroad Company. A large elm tree, grown in Gloucestershire, was being cut up into timber, when right in the very heart, a cavity of 8 feet long and 7½ inches wide was discovered. It contained a comb of the honey bee and a squirrel's skull. "No means of access to the hollow was discoverable, neither was decay anywhere apparent, and around the cavity itself no less than 50 rings,' each ring denoting a years growth, were counted. The hollow was of uniform size throughout, and presented the appearance of having been bored with an augur, and, great though its dimensions were, it was practically filled with the comb, intimating that the bees were in possession for several years. How the bees got there is a mystery. It is surmised that a squirrel once occupied a decayed hole in the tree, cleared away the decay, occupied the cavity as its own, and there died. Then the bees took possession and filled the hole with comb, when, by some means the entrance, which must have been small, became stopped, the large quantity of grub and fly being taken as evidence that the nest was not voluntarily deserted. Then for 50 years the growth of timber went on. The entrance being hermetically sealed, the comb kept in good condition until found.

The Wyoming Massacre.

DR. EGLE TAKES SOME OF THE ROMANCE OUT OF THE STORY.

The 111th anniversary of the battle and massacre of Wyoming was celebrated at Wilkes-Barre, July 3, by a large gathering at the monument at Forty Fort, which commemorates the massacre. Colonel Charles Dorrance, whose grandfather perished in the fight, opened the proceedings with a brief address. Mr Philip Myers, of Brooklyn, a descendant of another of the victims, read a poem.

Dr. Egle, the state librarian, read a paper which caused considerable flutter. In it he reviewed the massacre from the standpoint of a pennamite as opposed to the view generally taken by the Yankee settlers. He readextracts from documents in the State Library, showing that this land had been set apart by Pennsylvania's Govenor for the use of the Indians and the settlement of it by emigrants prohibited under heavy penalties. In defiance of this prohibition, however the Yankee emigrants invaded the valley and the Indians took up arms in defense of what was justly theirs. He also accused local historians of perverting and misstating the facts.

The Columbian.

G. B. Elwell, J. E. Bittenbender., } Editors.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1889.

After this year the Chairman of the Democratic County Committee becomes ex-officio a member of the State Committee.

The term of Judge Rice, of Wilkes-Barre, expires next year. He has made an able and upright judge, and though a republican, it is not improbable that the democrats will endorse his nomination. Politics should be kept off the bench.

Mr. Cleveland's views on tariff reform are those of the great majority of the Democracy. The ex-President is the most conspicuous representative now in sight of the Democratic side on the greatest living issue between the two great parties.—Rochester Herald (Ind.).

Mr. J. B. Agnew. of Pennsylvania, who was offered the position of superintendent of the dead letter office, post office department, has declined the appointment.

He is the only republican of the kind in Pennsylvania. A republican who has declined an office should be a great curiosity in a dime museum.

It is announced through a Wilkes-Barre dispatch that there is under consideration a general scheme having for its object the amalgamation of all the anthracite coal interests. It was reported that two plans were under consideration—one involving the control by purchase of the entire anthracite production and the second contemplating the formation of a syndicate which should control the stock of the several anthracite mills. A good many well posted financiers gave credit to the story that an attempt is being made to organize an anthracite coal trust, and by a unanimous voice the moving spirit in it was declared to be Austin Corbin. It is well known that Mr. Corbin started in with the idea of controlling the trade and he has never given up his intention.

Must Register Too.

Under the law passed by the recent Legislature, Veterinary Surgeons must register at the Prothonotary's office in each county. The law allows them six months space. After the time shall have elapsed no person can advertise or hold himself out to be a Veterinary physician or Surgeon unless he has graduated at a regularly incorporated institution having the power to issue a diploma and a degree. Within six months from the passage of the Act any Physician or Surgeon who has been practicing medicine or surgery for five years is intitled to registry, but after the expiration of that time he will be shut out. There are about one thousand such surgeons throughout the State who will register.—Exchange.

A Centennial For Thirteen States.

The governors of the thirteen original states have during the past two years held several conferences for the purpose of devising some plan to commemorate in a fitting manner the great events in the first 100 years' history of the United States. It has been agreed that the best method would be to secure from congress a return of the $1,600,000 loaned by the government to the centennal commission in 1876, and afterward returned to the national treasury, the money to be used for erection of a suitable memorial in Fairmount park. Last week a meeting, presided over by Govenor Beaver, was held in Independence hall, at which representatives of the thirteen original states were present. A committee was appointed to prepare a bill, to be presented to congress, providing that the $1,200,000 be appropriated for the purpose above indicated.

Smoking by Proxy.

In Tripp, a retired coal operator of Scranton, is one of the few men on record who enjoys the luxury of smoking by proxy. Twenty years ago his physician told him that smoking was prejudicial to his health, and that he must stop the practice. Although he was a confirmed smoker, he obeyed the doctors injunction. Since then he has never smoked a cigar. At the same time he has not totally denied himself his chief luxury. To indulge in it without disobeying the doctor's injunction he employes what might be called his "smoking vault." It is the duty of this man to smoke a Havana cigar when ever Mr. Tripp feels like indulging in a little tobacco dissipation, and blowing the smoke in his employer's face. The latter eagerly inhales the fragrant cloud and then exhales it through his nostrils and blows it down through the meshes of his long white beard. Mr. Tripp declares that he enjoys this second-handed smoke as keenly as when he did the puffing himself. He never travels without his smoking companion.

Czar and Detective

BEING AN ADVENTURE OF HIS RUSSIAN UPNESS AND A TOLL-TAKER

The Emperor of Russia, when upon a tour of inspection in the provinces, passed the night in the simple hut of a toll-taker; before retiring he was pleased as head of the church, to see the old man take up his Bible and read a chapter. "Do you read often, my son?" he asked. "Yes, your Majesty every day." "How much of the Bible have you read, my son?" "During the past year the Old Testament and part of Matthew, your Majesty." Thinking to reward him, the Czar placed 500 rubles between the leaves of the book o. Mark on the following morning, unknown to the toll-keeper, whom he bade farewell. Several months passed away and the Emperor returned, upon a second tour, to the toll-taker's hut. Taking the Bible in his hands he was surprised to find the 500 roubles intact. Agan interrogating the toll keeper as to his diligence in reading, he received an affirmative answer and the statement that he had finished the chapters of Luke.

"Lying my son, is a great sin," replied His Majesty; "give me the Bible till I see." Opening the book, he pointed to the money, which the man had not seen. "Thou hast not sought the Kingdom of God, my son. As punishment thou shalt also loose thy earthly reward." And he placed the roubles in his pocket, to distribute afterward among the neighboring poor. London Standard.

ORPHAN SCHOOLS.

THOSE AT MOUNT JOY AND WHITE HALL VISITED BY THE COMMISSION.

Messrs. Gobin, Skinner, Reinœhl and Kauffman, part of the commission, which are to have charge of the soldiers' orphan schools, visited the institutions at Mount Joy and White Hall last week. One of the commission said that at both places the children are without proper night clothes, the bath-rooms are defective, the ventilation bad and the buildings in need of repairs. On the 28th instant the commission which is visiting the eastern schools and that which is visting the western part of the state will meet here jointly and report. It is thought that four of the schools at least will be abolished. At this meeting a female inspector will be elected. One of the comission said that a sister of Representative Walk, of Philadelphia, will be chosen for the place. It is now held by Mrs. Atticks, of Harrisburg.

SULLIVAN AND KILRAIN.

The great event for which the world has watched for weeks past has taken place, and the fight between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain for the championship of the world, and for $20,000 stakes, is over. They met on Monday in Mississippi, and after fighting seventy-five rounds Kilrain's second threw up the sponge. Both men were badly punished, but unfortunately neither of them was killed. More attention has been given to this pair of human brutes during the last few weeks than to any action of the most distinguished statesmen of civilized nations. Column after column has been devoted to the expected prize fight and the participants, by the daily press, and the slugger has been elevated into a god. There is something to admire in a well developed form, and feats of strength by cultured muscle are admirable, but when men use their strength to pound each other for money they put themselves on a level with brutes. And yet the fight was watched with almost as much interest as that of a Presidential election.

GENERAL CAMERON'S WILL.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE BEQUESTS IN THE DISPOSITION OF HIS ESTATE.

The following are some of the bequests in General Cameron's will. Harrisburg hospital, $10,000; Home of friendless, Harrisburg, $10,000; his library and $5,000 to the young Men,s Christian association of Harrisburg as the foundation of a library for journeymen and apprentices; Mrs. James Duffy of Marietta, $5,000, in grateful recognition of her uniform kindness to his son Simon, German Reformed church of Mayton Lancaster county, $5,000 and a parsonage; John Campbell, his servant, $2,000; Old Donegal church, $2,000 Harris Park Front street, $1,000. A legacy of $5,000 to his sister, Mrs Cebba of Indianapolis, has lasped by her death The Home for the Friendless bequest is to be invested and called the Margaret Cameron fund in memory of General Cameron's wife, the interest to be applied to the support of the institution. The Maytown church bequest is to be invested by the church trustees and the interest to be applied to the support of a pastor. The will directs that the collateral inheritance tax on all these bequests shall be paid out of the estate, so that they may not be diminished.

Among the private bequests are the following: His grand-daughters, Mrs. David Watts, Mrs. S. H Chauvene, and Miss Janet Cameron, $60,000 each; his grandsons, Simon B. Cameron and Thomas Burnside, $50,000; the two last named of the latter also being given a farm each.

The State Teachers.

THE ANNUAL MEETING BEGUN AT ALTOONA. DR. HIGBEE'S ADDRESS.

ALTOONA, July 9.—The pedagogues of the Commonwealth assembled at 10 o'clock this morning in the Eleventh Avenue Opera House, this being the occasion of the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association. Mayor Turner delivered the address of welcome. Superintendent D. S. Keck, of Berks County, made the response. Superintendent Berkey, of Somerset, addressed the convention on the subject of industrial education, and Superintendent Smith, of Delaware County, and Luckey, of Pittsburg, made addresses.

In the afternoon Dr. E. E. Higbee, state superintendent, delivered his inaugural address. Speaking about the school curriculum he said: "It should embrace all studies which form the necessary foundation of intellectual life, and which belong to man as man, referring to all, not to some, and, therefore, excluding all trades and professions as having to do only with particular pursuits of life."

Language, he said, was an absolutely essential study, as are also geography and history. In alluding to art in the school he said: "I am convinced however, that music is the most general form of art in this modern world. Hence I do not hesitate to say that it should be in all our schools, as it is in all our homes and in all our sanctuaries; yielding its sweet, refining and inspiring benediction."

Continuing, he said: "Wherever the home life, either by neglect or by the force of circumstances, as in our larger centres of population, and among the extremely and almost homeless poor, proves to be inadequate, provision should be made for practical instruction in the general domestic industries of both sexes. It is not the trade, however, on the one hand, nor any great measure of pedagogic value on the other, but the general usefulness in way of social economy, which must warrant and characterize all efforts in this direction.

"So also as regards religion, the most profound factor of our existence. Home and the Church must in the main attend to this great interest, while the school co-operates by its moral care of the children and as part of the State, by its reverent acknowledgment of Almighty God and His divine guidance of the world. The schools can not for a moment antagonize the Christian home-life and church-life of the Commonwealth, but must do all in its power, under the law, to advance it."

In speaking of the teachers he said: "The salaries of the teachers are such as to require a spirit of great sacrifice upon the part of the young if they are to spend much time or much money in preparation. A change in this respect is imperative."

The address of Miss Sarah M. Row, principal of the training school at Reading, followed.

A discussion embracing all the phases of practical training was taken up. All the superintendents of the State and many of the teachers took part in the discussion. Prof. Horr delivered an oration on the subject of labor in its relation to capital.

Johnstown Deserted.

GENERAL HASTINGS AND STAFF LEAVE THE TOWN—SCENE AT THE DEPOT.

JOHNSTOWN, July 9.—The officers about headquarters were up early this morning and they began packing their grips and trunks, and before breakfast all hands were ready to start for home. James M. Auter, the messenger at the Adjutant General's office who has acted in the same capacity to General Hastings, packed up the General's goods and shipped them over to the station, and James is perhaps the happiest man who went out of Johnstown, for he has been yearning to get home for two weeks and when he first heard that the General was going to leave today he went into executive session with himself and had a good time.

General Wiley and Major Greenland who have been in charge of the Department of Public Safety and have rendered excellent services, went home on an early train.

General Hastings and a number of the other officers started to take the day express for Cresson. At the station General Hastings held a sort of levee. The men and women crowded about him to shake his hand and bid him good-bye, and one man presented him with a small boquet, in which was a card saying:

"To General Hastings:—For kind words, from the workingmen on Prospect Hill."

This man also presented the General with a floral wreath. Not a few of the men and women wiped tears from their eyes as they shook the General's hand and told him they were sorry he was going to leave. Those who accompanied General Hastings to Cresson were Quartermaster General, Assistant Commissary General Spangler, Colonel B Frank Eshleman, Colonel Paxon, Major Horn, Major-Huidekoper, Major Evans, Colonel Gray and Major James Hastings. The members of the local Finance Committee also went to Cresson to meet the commission.

All the tents were stacked at headquarters this afternoon with the exception of those needed by Captain Hamilton and Colonel Potter, who had been left in charge of the State work by General Hastings.

The place seems very lonely, indeed, to-night. When the members of the 14th depart the town will lose all the life that has been put into it by the military. Some of the citizens dread to see the military leave and they are afraid the civil authorities will not be able to cope with the disturbing elements that still exist in the valley.

The officers of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of Pennsylvania were here to day and left $30,000 with the officers of the local lodge for distribution among its members; $20,000 more have been contributed, making $50,000 in all. The membership of the lodge here is 280.

Those Internal Dangers.

The most noteworthy thing said by President Harrison at Woodstock on the Fourth was his declaration that "it is not in the power of any people upon earth much to harm us, except our own people," and that "all the more, exempt from thoughts of foreign assault, ought our thoughts to turn to dangers which are internal and from which alone we can have serious harm."

It would have given additional value to the President's remarks if he had indicated, however briefly, what he considers the internal dangers to be. The World has steadily pointed out certain plain conditions in politics and evident tendencies in government which history teaches to be dangerous to Republics. Are these the dangers which the President had in mind?

Is it not, for example, an "internal danger," menacing "serious harm" to the nation, when a Presidential election becomes mainly the contest of two enormous corruption funds? Is it not harm for and from "our own people" when a pivotal State like Indiana is carried by organized bribery, and the man who incited and directed the corruption is saved from punishment through the intervention of a Federal Judge who reversed his own rulings to protect the culprit? Is there not the sort of danger described by the President in the practical sale of high offices for money—including the Vice-Presidency and PostmastertGeneralship? Could there be a more serious menace to the people's interests than is contained in the increase of Trusts and other monopolies for controlling business and fixing arbitrarily the prices of the necessaries of life? Does President Harrison class with the dangers which he had in mind the wild carnival for spoils which follows every election, and the nepotism and favoritism which regard public office as a private perquisite?

Or does the President see an "internal danger" only in the effort of the Democrats to repeal unjust taxation and to lift from American manufactures their hindering handicap? When Mr. Harrison next speaks will he not define what he conceives to be the only dangers "from which alone we can have serious harm?"—World.

Lucky Northumberland.

HOW THE ANCIENT TOWN WAS BENEFITED BY THE LATE BIG FLOOD.

The Scranton Truth is responsible for the following publication: "The ancient and venerable town of Northumberland, at the confluence of the North and West branches of the Susquehanna, profits largely by the flood, and a good many of its citizens have been enriched by the ruin of others. The logs came floating down in thousands from Williamsport and vicinity, affording profitable work for a number in Northumberland, who, stimulated by the prize of fifty cents salvage on each log, captured a vast quantity of the runaway lumber. It is estimated that the town has added fourteen thousand dollars to its wealth in this way. The big saw mill at Northumberland was so fortunate as to save its entire fleet of rafts, and already it has sold every stick of timber on hand to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for thousands of dollars. This gives employment to two hundred men. From Chillisquaque creek, three or four miles above the town, down to Northumberland the low lands between the canal and river were covered with logs when the waters receded. Several of the farmers had their crops ruined by the flood, but the crop of logs it left them at fifty cents each will largely compensate them for their vegetables."

A party of engineers are now surveying a new route between Williamsport and Elmira, it is believed, for the Northern Central Road. It is claimed that by following the mountain ridges twenty bridges can be avoided.

FARMS BEST Soil Climate and Location in the South J. F. MANOHA, Claremont Va July 12-4t.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, July 8, 1889.

Mr. Harrison has apparently bent the knee to the Republican Senatorial combination, and the fact has created no little gossip here. It has of course been well known for some time past that quite a number of more or less prominent Republican Senators were aggrieved because of real or fancied slights they had received from the administration, and many people predicted open hostilities between Harrison and the Senate next winter. A number of Republican Senators, including Allison, Cullom, Chandler and Dolph and Ingalls, consulted over this and other matters and decided to hold a caucus of Republican Senators in the near future. They called on the President in order, as they expressed it, "to know where he stood." They were surprised to find that he "stood" just where they did; believing that no important move or appointment should be made without consultation with the party leaders and that their wishes should be consulted in all appointments in their respective sections. Senator Cullom expressed great pleasure at what he considered the President's change of heart. Some people may accuse Mr. Harrison of weakness, but for my part I think he was very shrewed to "make up" with the Senators.

Great is the force of example. Commissioner of Pensions, Tanner, a short time since made his daughter his private Secretary at a salary of $1,800 a year, now the new Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Thos. J. Morgan, of Rhode Island, has his wife for private Secretary at a salary of $1,000 a year. Seeing the action of these officials, Dr. Dorchester, superintendent of Indian Schools, had his wife appointed Special agent. This enables her to travel around with the Doctor, when he visits the different Indian schools and get her expenses paid and a salary of $6.00 a day from kind old Uncle Sam. All this time there is a law against the employment of more than one member of the same family by the same department.

Attorney General Miller has discovered a rare curiosity. It is a Virginia Republican who declines an office. Mr. C. A. Heermans, who was recently appointed assistant U. S. Attorney for the western district of Virginia, has written declining the office on the ground that he should have been appointed attorney and that the smaller office was given him as the result of a compromise between certain parties, which he refuses to recognize. Here's innocence for you. Does not this young gentleman know, for he must be young, very young, that in politics King Compromise rules the roast. Seldom in the history of the country has a President or even a Governor of a State been nominated without the assistance of the all powerful compromise. Had this gentleman effected a compromise with his temper the foolish letter would probably never have been written.

Mr. Cleveland vetoed two bills passed by Congress to quiet the title of the land granted to the Des Moines River Navigation Company, and now the Attorney General of Iowa is here asking the department to bring suit to set aside the title in the name of the United States.

Secretary Windom only receives visitors by card now, and he requires them to state their business, so that he may decide whether he will grant a personal interview. The innovation is not popular.

The department of Agriculture has issued a circular to railroads and transportation companies regulating the shipment of cattle from Texas and Arkansas during the continuance of the disease known as "Texas fever." It will also locate inspectors at all the big stock yards to see that the regulations are properly carried out.

Senator Harris, of Tennessee, is said to be very solid with Postmaster General Wanamaker, who is said to have intimated to the Senator that he might name the postmaster at his home, at Memphis. Of course it was stipulated that the man named should be a Republican. I understand that General R. F. Patterson has been named.

Among the applicants for a foreign appointment under this administration is: A. C. Hill, of Texas, a first cousin to the late Ben. Hill, of Georgia. It is needless to say that his politics are not those of the distinguished Georgian.

The paragraphs of the American humorist have proven too much for the sensitive nature of the Persian minister to this country and he has determined to go back to the Shah. He carries with him a scrap book filled with clippings from the press. His master, the Shah, is not so sensitive, or he would not now be again visiting England.

The resignation of General Jos. E. Johnston, Railroad Commissioner, has been accepted, to take effect on the 16th inst. This resignation has been in the hands of Secretary Noble since early in March, but it had been generally understood that General Johnston would remain where he was, General Sherman having made a personal request of the President to that effect.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Miss Fannie Foulk, Mr. Silas Huuring, Miss Mary Hedden, George Hartman, L. E. Johnson, Mrs. Hannah Wilson.

Persons calling for these letters please say, "they are advertised."

GEORGE A. CLARK, P. M.

We expected to have seen a new mail carrier on this route last Monday morning, but it appears that the contractor could not find a man in all this region who was fool enough to carry the mail 18 miles, six times a week for $20 a month; so Frank Eves continues at a better figure than last year. Surely the contractor will not make much on this job, as his contract was for $284.—Millville Tablet.

Catharine, wife of Samuel Farver, died at her home on the D. Hughes farm at the river, on Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock. She had been in bad health for several months, but her death was entirely unexpected. Mr. Farver is left with two small children. The funeral took place on Saturday morning at the Evangelical church, and the remains were taken to Orangeville for interment. Mrs. Farver's age was 39 years and 3 days.

Miss Amanda Howell died at the residence of her father, John Howell, corner of East and Fourth street, on Monday after suffering for weeks with that dread disease consumption. She was under careful medical treatment, and had hopes of recovery. She was about 20 years of age, and had many friends. Funeral services were held Wednesday in the Reformed church, conducted by the pastor, after which interment was made in Rosemont Cemetery.

The Board of Trustees of the Normal School has determined to erect an addition to the Dormitory, the increasing patronage of the institution having rendered it necessary that more room should be provided. The contract for the excavation for the foundation has been awarded to W. M. Monroe at 27½ cents a yard, and the work has been begun. It is hoped that the new building may be completed early in the fall. W. G. Hale, of Philadelphia, is the architect, and the committee of the Board having the building in charge consists of A. Z. Schoch, Dr. J. Schuyler and E R. Drinker.

There will be a basket picnic at Central on Thursday next week, July 18th, under the supervision of the Lutheran Sunday School. The fare for the round trip will be only 50 cents. An invitation is extended to all to join and have a good time. The Hess grove at Central has been fitted up especially for picnic grounds, and is furnished with tables, seats, swings, good spring water, and all the nescessary conveniences. Arrangements will be made so that even if the crowd is very large they will all be carried to the grove in the early part of the day, and have nearly the whole day in the beautiful woods of the North Mountain. Should it storm on Thursday the excursion will be given the next day (Friday).

The matter of the division of Greenwood township into two election districts was to have been submitted to Judge Albright on May 9, but when that day came, the exceptants were not ready, as they desired to take some depositions. June 21 was fixed for taking testimony, but the exceptants did not appear. On June 24 an application was made by counsel for the petitioners to the court to order the papers to be sent forthwith to Judge Albright, but Judge Ikeler declined to make any order, as he had been concerned as counsel for the exceptants, and was therefore disqualified to sit in the matter. An adjourned court has been fixed for August when another Judge will be on the bench, and another effort will be made to have the case disposed of.

THE COLUMBIAN enters complaint that Bloomsburg is not noticed by the city papers as frequently as the size of the town deserves. Bloomsburg should do something if she wants to be noticed.—Shickshinny Echo.

Brother Tubbs is mistaken. Our complaint is that notwithstanding the progress that Bloomsburg is making, and the numerous industrial movements that have been inaugurated here, that no one seems to take interest enough in the matter to inform the city papers what we are doing. As to "doing something," there is not a town in the State of the size that has made the progress during the past few years that Bloomsburg has. By the way, Mr. Echo, we never see Shickshinny mentioned by the city papers. Why don't you "do something?"

Base Ball.

A game of baseball will be played Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Athletic Park between the Anthracites of Wilkes-Barre and the Bloomsburg club. This game is to decide the championship between Luzerne and Columbia counties.

On Wednesday of next week, July 17th, a game will be played between the club of Mahanoy City and our home nine.

Court Proceedings.

Court convened pursuant to adjournment, all the judges on the bench.

C. C. Evans appointed guardian of Maggie M. and James E. Sponenberg.

Commonwealth vs. Lafayette Fetterman et al, order continued until next session.

Thomas Casey appointed auditor of Conyngham township.

Hotel license of John F. Caldwell in Bloomsburg transferred to John S. Mann.

Vacant Mail Routes.

The sharks who make a business of bidding in mail routes have gotten left this time in this section. The route from Shickshinny to Fishingcreek could not be sublet and Postmaster Campbell was obliged to hire the mail carried. The route from Harveyville to Fairmount Springs was "vacant" also and an extra was put on. The additional amount paid these carriers will be collected from the parties who bid off the route.—Echo.

No Boating Until After August 1st.

The damage to the Pennsylvania canal between Sunbury and Harrisburg can be scarcely estimated. At some places the canal is washed out ten to fifteen feet below the bed. At other points the whole mountain side ran into the water way, filling it with rocks and earth. It will require the constant work of a large force of men until August 1st to get this section open for traffic. Mr. J. H. Campbell, weighmaster at Beach Haven, has a large gang of men at work at Clark's ferry mending a bad break and removing debris.

A Bull-Frog in His Stomach.

A Tioga county paper is responsible for the following: George Moore, who lives at Greenwood, a lumbering camp near Roaring Branch, ejected a bull-frog from his stomach a few days ago. It appears that Mr. Moore had been ailing for several months, and was unable to secure any relief. He finally called on a physician who gave him an emetic which caused him to vomit and expel from his stomach a bull-frog. Since that time Mr. Moore has been feeling as well as ever. It is supposed that he swallowed the frog while drinking at a spring some time ago, and the reptile has been growing in his stomach since.

The New Fish Laws.

The new fish laws, in pamphlet form, have been printed. They prohibit the taking from the water any black bass less than 6 inches in length or rock bass less than 5 inches in length. Also the taking of fish (except suckers, bull heads and eels) by any other way than by rod, hook and line. The setting of out-lines, use of nets and seines are forbidden under a heavy penalty. The fish and game wardens have received special instructions from the fish commissioners to see that the new laws are enforced, and will do so. Our fishermen should interest themselves in the matter and help the enforcement of the laws.

A Rainbow Reception

will be held at the Rink by the Young People's Social Club of the Presbyterian church on Friday and Saturday evenings of this week.

Booths will be erected and handsomely decorated in the colors of the rainbow, from which will be served all the delicacies of the season by young ladies in appropriate costumes.

Among other attractions will be a facsimile of an Adirondack hunting and fishing camp, a Post-office; all are requested to look out for the overland pony express rider and call early for their mail. An old curiosity shop filled with rare and quaint old articles. The management would be grateful for any contributions to their collection which will have careful attention and be promptly returned at the close of the entertainment. Good music will be furnished by the Band and Orchestra.

Used a Piano for a Bank.

James Williams, a colored men of Jersey Shore, lost his piano in the flood. After the waters had subsided Williams made a search for his musical instrument and found it in the middle of a plowed field about half a mile west of the Pine Creek Railroad crossing over the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad. The piano stood in the field as if some one had placed it there. Williams went up to the piano and abstracted a cool $1,700 from its inner recesses. He had used the piano as a bank and his joy upon finding his money intact can be imagined. The piano still stands in the field, a worthless instrument. —Sun and Banner.

A Hebrw Anniversary in 1892.

All Hebrew organizations throughout the country have formed an association for the purpose of worthily commemorating the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America in 1892, which is also the anniversary of the expulsion of the Hebrews from Spain. Circulars to this effect have been sent to every town and city where there is a Hebrew congregation or society. A memorial is to be erected, and it may take the form of a monument or college. During the centennial year the Hebrews erected a monument in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, which was designed and executed by the celebrated sculptor Ezekiel, of Cincinnati, representing the Goddess of Liberty protecting religion, the latter typified by a child holding a cap from which the flames of a life-giving belief issue. The Hebrews are lovers of freedom and have always been grateful to those who have exercised toleration towards them.

Literary Notes.

"The Bookless House" is discussed by Prof. Chas. F. Richardson in the July number of Book News (John Wanamaker, Philadelphia), which contains besides reviews of R. L. Stevenson's new story, "The Wrong Box;" "Darwinism;" the new edition of Amiel's Journal, translated by Mrs. Humphry Ward; "Picturesque Alaska," illustrated by a picture of Sitka; the new edition of Thackeray, and many others of the latest books. Among other general articles are "How Edward Bellamy Came to Write, 'Looking Backward'," "Edwin Arnold as Editor," "Methods of Reading," and an excerpt from William Dean Howell's article in Harper's Magazine on "The Improved Manners of the Novel," names of the "Forty Immortals" of the French Academy, and a list of books for boys. It contains also a sketch of the eminent critic and litterateur, E. C. Stedman, and is accompanied by his portrait.

Forced to Leave Home.

Over 60 people were forced to leave their homes yesterday to call for a free trial package of Lane's Family Medicine. If your blood is bad, your liver and kidneys out of order, if you are constipated and have headache and an unsightly complexion, don't fail to call on any druggist today for a free sample of this grand remedy. The ladies praise it, Everyone likes it. Large-size package 50 cents. Apr. 26-6m.

The Locust Wing.

Some say that the seventeen-year-old locusts are due this year and others say they are not. An exchange in working an item out of the subject says: "More or less superstition is attached to the advent of the locust, and many put full confidence in the belief that the fate of the country for the next seventeen years is decided by whatever letter appears on the locust's wing. In proof of this they cite the fact in 1855, when they appeared in great abundance the letter 'W' could be plainly seen on their wing, which signified war. As war followed in a few years the superstitious idea gained strength, and is very generally believed in throughout the country. In 1872, the next regular period for their appearance, it is claimed the letter 'P' could be as distinctly seen as the 'W' of seventeen years before. Peace and plenty followed their last appearance, which satisfies the credulous that the locust is a true prophet. What letter will appear on their wings this year has not yet been discovered, but the country folks are anxiously awaiting an investigation of the matter."

100 Ladies Wanted.

And 100 men to call on any druggist for a free trial package of Lane's Family Medicine, the great root and herb remedy, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. For diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys it is a positive cure. For constipation and clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Children like it. Everyone praises it. Large-size package, 50 cents. At all druggists.' Apr. 26 6m.

A New Swindle on the Farmers.

Swindlers have struck a new scheme for beating the unhappy granger who is inclined to make money more rapidly than by the paths of rectitude. It is the man who wants to get rich fast that lays himself open to the wiles of such scoundrels as this. A well dressed man calls at the farm house and wants to buy a good horse. A horse is shown him; prices are made and, after bantering, a bargain is struck, and the buyer pays $10 down to secure the bargain and leaves to return in a week for the horse. The next day another well-dressed and gentlemanly man calls and takes a fancy to the same horse. The farmer cannot sell it because it is sold, but No. 2 buyer wants the horse bad, as it will just match his other horse which he has in New York or Chicago, or some other place. He offers $10, $15, or $25 above the price for which it was sold to No. 1. The farmer cannot sell the horse, but buyer No. 2 will be back in a few days, and if the farmer has the horse he will be glad to pay the $25 extra for the animal. When No. 1 comes for the horse the farmer wants to keep the animal to sell to No. 2, so he offers No. 1 his money and ten dollars more back for his bargain. No. 1 takes the money, is $10 ahead, half of which he gives to No. 2, and the farmer he still owns the horse.

Changes at the Banking Company

We are informed by the Bloomsburg Banking Company that at its regular Semi-annual meeting of directors on the 9th inst., after disposing of the routine business and declaring the usual semi-annual four per cent. dividend &c., Mr. John A. Funston, who has been president of the bank since its organization March 1871, stated that he desired to lessen his business cares and responsibilities and to that end had disposed of his stock in the Bloomsburg Banking Co., and consequently tendered his resignation as president and director. After accepting Mr. Funston's resignation, I. S. Kuhn Esq. was chosen president and Mr. Arthur H. Bloom, formerly of Bloomsburg and now employed as Assistant Cashier of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Grant, Neb. chosen for the same position with the Banking Co.

Mr. B. R. Davis formerly of the Catawissa Deposit Bank was elected book-keeper and accountant for the bank with Mr. H. A. Schoch, assistant. H. H. Grotz Esq. is retained as cashier, while Mr. John F. Peacock resigned.

Council Proceedings.

Council met at regular time for monthly meeting, on July 4th, and adjourned until July 5th, at which time there were present, President Harman, and members, Fetterman, Gross, Ringler, Schwinn, Yost and Wells. Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Grant Herring, Esq., appeared representing residents of East Third street, and urged the extension of said street, and presented a petition signed by 70 citizens of the town favoring a straight route. Mr. Gross moved that the Town Surveyor be authorized to make a survey of the two proposed routes of extension of East Third street, and make a draft of each. Carried.

J. C. Brown, Dr. W. M. Reber and I. S. Kuhn, representing School Furnishing Co., made application for a fire hydrant at Eighth and West streets.

A permit was granted William Rabb to extend the windows of his new store building fourteen inches on front pavement.

A petition was presented by residents of Rock street asking for an extension of the sewer on said street. On motion petition was granted.

Council sitting as an adjourned board of appeal, ordered the name of Archie Nesbit stricken from the tax-roll, as he claims to be under age.

On motion a single crossing was ordered to be laid across Sixth street, on West side of Catharine.

Mr. Ringler moved that the tax-roll be placed in the hands of the Treasurer with instructions to advertise and receive taxes. Seconded and carried.

On motion Street Commissioner was directed to notify Dennis Donovan and Thos. Sullivan to repair their pavements within 20 days, or it will be done by the town and 20 per cent. added to the cost thereof.

The following application for a franchise to erect an electric light plant was received:

"Bloomsburg, Pa., July 3, 1889. To the President and Members of the Town Council. Gentlemen: I hereby make application to your honorable body, asking that you grant to me an exclusive franchise for the period of one year from date in which to erect an arc and incandescent electric light plant to be operated by a local company. If said franchise be granted I respectfully ask that the Secretary be instructed to furnish me with copy of the franchise granted. The time, one year, asked for is to protect said local company against any and all foreign electric companies for said period or time. Respectfully, yours, J. R. Wallezo."

On motion the franchise was granted.

A communication was received from the Sanitary Committee, accompanied by the complaint made to them regarding the condition of the hog pen of Frank Parks, which they consider a nuisance and recommend its abatement. Ordered filed.

A petition signed by 22 citizens was received asking that C. W. Miller be required to remove a cess-pool at lot at corner of East and Fifth streets. Ordered filed.

A petition was received signed by 15 citizens asking that the street known as North Penn street be opened leading from Second street to the Light street road. Ordered filed.

Mr Gross offered the following resolution:

RESOLVED by the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg, First, that the funded debt of the Town be increased in the sum of five thousand dollars, the money to be applied to the purchase of a lot and the erection thereon of buildings for the Town as council room, place of meetings of fire companies, and keeping of hose carriages, hose and other fire apparatus, and for such other or further purpose as the council may from time to time direct; the excess of such loan, if any, over the cost of lot and buildings, to be applied upon expenditures made or which may be made for hose or other fire apparatus; and that coupon bonds be issued therefor in sums not less than $100, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent, payable semi-annually. (Here follows the dates when the bonds shall become due, the collection of taxes for payment of same, and the form of the bond. The President was authorized to make sale of the bonds, after filing a statement as required by law.) Adopted.

The report of Commissioner of Highway for June was presented and orders were directed to be drawn to the amount of $872.42.

MR. SNYDER'S REPLY.

EDITORS COLUMBIAN:—The following is a copy of a reply to the Sentinel, to "Number One."

Mr. Krickbaum, you insist on me replying to an uncalled for article in last week's Sentinel. I don't solicit a newspaper altercation with you; however if you insist on one, your desire can be gratified, provided you publish all which will be suitable for only a paper of low standing like the "Sentinel."

You are trying to create public sympathy in a suit pending between you and me, about which you should have remained silent until it is ended. You have good counsel to ably represent your side of the case, but as you have already opened it, it is but just and proper that I represent the other side.

Prior to the Brooks high license law, as it is generally called, the Clerk of the Courts advertised all applications for license in any two papers in the county in which he saw proper.

Two years ago I advertised in your paper; there were 56 applications, for which you charged me $4.48 or 8 cents each. I paid you and hold your receipt for same, signed over your own signature, which you cannot deny by affidavit nor "honest statement."

Under the Brooks law the Court shall designate in which two papers applications shall be advertised.

Last year THE COLUMBIAN and "Sentinel" were selected. THE COLUMBIAN'S bill was paid satisfactory to both parties. You wanted twice as much for the same work. I refused to pay it. You sued me; I paid the costs, made you a legal tender for same amount I paid COLUMBIAN, and when the Justice decided that that was all you was entitled to, you grew angry and remarked that you could have bought the Justice if you felt so disposed, which you know is untrue.

When the papers were to be selected for the present year, you stooped lower than any other editor in the county would have done to secure the patronage again, not for the emoluments so much as for an opportunity to glut your vengeance on me. After the Associate Judges agreed that you should have the advertisement, you went boasting about how you had stolen a march on me. The "Republican" being selected as the other paper without solicitation, and when its bill was presented, based upon advertising County Statement, I cheerfully paid it and am ready and willing to pay you the same, but you want seven dollars more than twice as much; but to avoid another suit, I offered you $10.00 more than I paid the "Republican," making $50.00, not that I loved or feared you, but to save trouble and expense. You declined, sued me again; I paid the costs and took an appeal. Last week you ruled it for arbitration; got angry and made a drive at me in your paper, which you are editing to abuse your enemies and reward your friends.

Two years ago when I controlled the advertising you charged me eight cents apiece for each application; now you want ONE DOLLAR TWENTY-FOUR AND TWO SEVENTH OF A CENT, a difference of one dollar sixteen and two seventh of a cent. How is this for trimming?" Mr. Hoffman, Clerk of the Courts of Montour county, which is in this Judicial District, governed by the same rules of Court and presided over by the same President Judge, paid twenty-five cents this year, and you want within five seventh of a cent one dollar more, making a difference of nearly seventy dollars on seventy applications.

You say you made your charge according to your rates. You have no regular rates; never had any. You charge one person one price and another, another. For instance, executors' and administrators' notices, in some estates you charge two dollars, in others, for the same kind and amount of work, three dollars; although you said in your paper you charged only two dollars, so as to take advantage of other papers. Please explain why you did this; and in a libel for divorce other papers charge three dollars and you charged six dollars. How is this for "trimmings?"

You claim a large circulation; some you charge one dollar for subscription, others less, and those who do your political bidding, nothing. You are a policy man; for example, how much did you subscribe toward Johnstown sufferers? and how much did you pay for that barrel of whiskey you placed in the jail to run a campaign?

You are again quibbling about fees. When you was Prothonotary you accepted all the fee-bill allowed. Since you went out of office the fee-bill of 1878, which you served under, has been declared unconstitutional and the 1868 fee-bill the legal one, which averages about 40 per cent. more than former one. I know of no county officer in the State, except myself, who does not serve under the latter. Yet you abuse and try to misrepresent me. You say I charge one dollar and seventy-five cent for a revival. Didn't you charge the same? Under the present legal fee-bill I could charge two dollars and fifty cents, as they are doing in Luzerne and Schuylkill counties, and in Lycoming county the fee for a judgment is one dollar and sixty-five cents. I charge one dollar and twenty-five cents for same. What reason have you to howl at me? And in regard to "bonnet and trimmings" in the Sessions, I charge three dollars and sixty cents and you five dollars and eighty-five cents. How is this for "trimmings?" I also find in the Sessions where you collected your fee from the County in a Commonwealth case which was three dollars, and afterward the costs were paid in a mistake to you instead of the Commissioners' which is forty-three dollars and forty-two cents, and instead of you paying them over you shoved them down your trouser-leg and walked out of office; when discovered you refused to pay the amount to the county. Do you want all the particulars? If so, call for them in No. 2. What I say I can prove from the records which are the best evidence in the world, and if any of your readers doubt my word, let them call and I will show them cheerfully and gratuitously.

If the fee-bill is wrong why did you not correct it or adopt a new one last winter when you was in the Legislature? You faithfully promised if the people would send you, what you would do. Please tell them what you did, besides copying the Legislative record for your paper, draw your $1500.00 salary and "trimmings," and stay at home half the time.

Tell your readers how you voted on the fence law, and if you rode to and from Harrisburg weekly on a railroad pass.

Your constituents will want an explanation before they send you back, notwithstanding you may claim the second term.

You say also in your article, "when rogues fall out honest men get their dues." Mr. A. J. Derr, of Jackson township, said in a communication about a year ago, if you had your dues you would be wearing a striped suit behind prison bars. Probably you have reference to the palmy days when you was Commissioners' clerk and run the county, manipulating bridge and jail contracts, kept a vigilant eye on that $593.00 bond that mysteriously disappeared from the vaults, and shaved honest farmers' sheep orders.

The dogs destroyed their sheep and you fleeced them out of their orders. You ought to refund their money and teach reform by example not by precept.

You also say I am noted for letter writing. You ought to know, you paid dearly for those you hold while I secured yours for nothing. If you want a few for publication during the dog days please call for them in No. 2, and then your readers can see about the barrel of whiskey you had at the jail, which you denied by affidavit, and to-day you stand before God and man a perjurer. WM. H. SNYDER.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, July 8, 1889.

According to the custom begun by us four years ago, the Saturday half holidays will commence this week (13th inst.), and continue until further notice.

This Saturday half holiday is an inconvenience to you and a loss to us. The gainers are the nearly 4000 persons who are on our pay-roll to-day. True every one of them (except mechanical workers by the piece or hour) gets a liberal vacation, with pay, if in our employ six months. But we are glad to give them more. People who work as our people do deserve not only the regular vacations they have had since the store started, but this little extra rest and outing that our goodwill and your consideration puts in their way.

By a little forethought you can mostly arrange to make purchases on other days than Saturdays; or if Saturday is the only handy day to be at the store, bear in mind that the buying must be done before 1 P. M.

Of course things you write for will come just about as promptly as if the store were open as usual every day during the heated term.

A TERM WANTED.

There were three hundred trained and experienced clerks employed in the railway mail service between New York and Chicago when Mr. Wanamaker took possession of the Cabinet office he had bought.

The duties performed by these men are of a kind for which experience alone can fit men, and they have no more relation to politics than to the moons of Mars. Incapacity and inexperience on the part of the railway mail clerks disturb and delay the business of the country and subject the public to inconvenience and serious loss.

Of the three hundred experienced and capable men employed Mr. Wanamaker had removed 296, appointing new and inexperienced men in their places.

If the railway mail service was a private or corporate enterprise, depending upon the efficiency of its work for public patronage, a new manager who should disorganize the business in this reckless fashion would be justly characterized as a fool. Precisely what term—at once accurately descriptive and duly respectful—would it be proper to apply to Mr. Wanamaker for doing the same thing?—World.

Pete Was Resigned.

A MURDERER WHO WAS WILLING TO HELP HIS EXECUTIONER.

There was only one man waiting execution at Fort Smith when I visited the post, and he was only one of the ordinary run of white men in the Indian Territory. The hangman rather wanted to show him off, and so we paid a visit to the guard house. Upon entering it the executioner said:

"Pete, here is a decent white man came to see you. Do your purtiest, now, to entertain him. You've got two more days to live, and I hope you'll try and work into decent society as much as possible."

"I'm sure I'm glad to see him," responded Pete, as he came forward and shook hands.

"That's good. A born gentleman couldn't have said them words better. If I could only keep you six weeks, Pete, you wouldn't know yourself, and you'd do me proud. But I can't. I've got to hang you day after to-morrow."

"Well, I'm ready."

"That's good, and just what I expected of you. I've used you white, and I expect the same in return. If there's any one thing that riles me above another it's to have a man go back on me at the last end. Did you see me hang Cherokee Jack, Pete?"

"Yes."

"I made a bungle of it because he kicked at the last. Why, sir (turning to me), he held up until the very last hour, deluding me with promises, and then went dead back on me. Think of his refusing to be hung after everything was shipshape and regular."

"I'm not going to kick," observed Peter.

"Good for you! Some of the boys are betting that you will, but I'll give odds that you won't. When a man knows he's got to be hung, what's the use? People have got a mistaken notion about hanging. It don't hurt a bit. How you feelin', Peter?"

"Resigned."

"That's right. You hadn't orter killed your old woman, but being you did, and being that you must pall hemp for it, the best way is to feel resigned. You come mighty nigh being a gentleman, Pete, and, as I said before, I'm sorry I can't keep you and watch your mental improvement. You'd improve fifty per cent. in six weeks. Want to ask the gent any questions, Pete?"

"N-o, I guess not. Will he be here to see me go?"

"He'd like to ever so much, but he can't. He's got to go on to Van Buren."

"Can I do anything for you," I asked.

"No, thank you."

"Well, Pete, we must be going," briskly remarked the executioner. "Would like to stay longer, but time presses. I'll come in to-morrow and cut your hair and rehearse a bit. I made such a poor job last time that I want to do extra fine on you. If you'll stick to what you say, I'll do the purtiest job ever seen at this post."

"I want everything to go off all right," responded the condemned.

"Of course—why shouldn't you? It's for your interest, too. Well, so long, old boy. Keep your grit up and do your best, and I'll guarantee a first-class job or quit the business."—New York Sun.

Peculiar

Is the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients. Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in its good name at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful medicine for purifying the blood, giving strength, and creating an appetite.

Well Answered

A train from Pittsburg was approaching Chicago. On board was a quiet, well-dressed copper-colored young Indian, who seemed to have all he could do to attend to his own business, which he did without molestation, until a young man, whose brains had evidently been devoted to his clothing, came from the sleeper into the smoking-car and saw him.

"An Indian, I guess," said the young man, as he lighted a cigarette. And then, approaching the son of the plains, he called general attention by shouting with strange gestures:

"Ugh heap big Injun Omah! Sioux! Pawnee! See Great Father! Have a drink fire water? Warm injuns blood."

The Indian gazed at the young man a moment with an ill concealed expression of contempt on his face and then he said with good pronunciation:

"You must have been reading dime novels, sir. I am going back to my people in Montana, after spending three years in the East at school. I advise you to do the same thing. Where I live, gentlemen do not carry whisky flasks in their pockets."

The young fire water drinker did not wait to finish his smoke. There was too much mirth and music in the air just then.

Took First Prize.

The State Board of Pharmacy recently analyzed twelve of the most popular medicines in order to see whether they were what they were recommended to be. After two weeks of careful work, they awarded the first prize, a gold medal to Messrs. A. P. Ordway & Co., proprietors of Sulphur Bitters, it being in their opinion the best and only strictly pure blood purifying medicine in the market. Weekly Chemist.

TALK OF THE DAY.

WAS QUIET WHEN HE SLEPT.

"How do you like my boy, Mr. Brown? Nice quiet little fellow about the office?"

"Yes. He doesn't snore."—Harper's Bazzar.

Typewriter Agent—I called to see you in reference to your typewriter. Would you exchange if you could get some improvements?"

"Merchant—I can't; I'm engaged to her.—Judge.

TWO OF A KIND.

Blacksmith—S s s-see h-he-ere, B-b-b-bob! st-st-st strike, qu-qu-quick, the-the-er.

Helper—Wh-wh-where?

Blacksmith (in a discouraged jumble)—Nev-er-ever m-m-mind; it's c-c-c-cold n-now.—Judge.

OBEYING THE TEXT.

"Why did you slug your teacher on the street, Johnny?"

"'Cause he licked me in school last week, and since I joined the Prohibitionists, pop, my motto is 'Down with all lickers.'"—Yonkers Gazette.

If Prohibition State Chairman Palmer is as angry at the Republican bosses as he seems to be, he will be found arrayed against them with his political sword in hand next fall. We shall see what we shall see.—Harrisburg Patriot.

"HAPPY AS A KING."

"King Milan is fearfully short of money and utterly without credit."

When Brokeley read this he thrust both hands into his pockets up to the wrists and exclaimed melodramatically:

"Now I know what it is to feel like a King!"—Fliegende Blaetter.

"There is only one sure way to prevent a boy from smoking cigarettes, and that is to chop his head off.—Columbus Dispatch.

Adolph Struthers of Hancock county, Ohio, is bound to keep cool this summer. He has invented a fan to be placed in his hat, which is run by an electric battery carried in one of his pockets. He has been using the fan for several weeks past, and says it works perfectly, and that he does not mind the extra weight.

They were talking about penmanship. "I like your hand," said he. "Don't you want it, George?" she asked sweetly. No cards.—Lawrence Daily American.

"Did Eve talk French?" asks an exchange. We don't know, but we reckon that when Adam came home from lodge he heard her, no matter what language she talked in."—Williamsport Sun and Banner.

Queen Victoria is the richest woman in the British Kingdom. She has accumulated a fortune of $20,000,000.

Lord Tennyson is to receive $1000 for the poem he is now writing. His first accepted poem brought him the munificent sum of ten shillings.

During her stay at Cape May Mrs. Harrison sent a daily telegram to Mrs. McKee to keep her informed of the baby McKees.

You can buy a pigs-in-clover puzzle for two cents, but it isn't any easier to put the pigs in the pen than it was when the thing cost a dime.—Somerville Journal.

Tell a woman that she looks fresh and she will smile all over. Tell a man the same thing, and if he doesn't kick you it is either because he has corns or daresn't.—Burlington Free Press.

"Well, sir, what are your prospects? My daughter can't marry a beggar." "I expect to come into a large fortune, sir." "Inherited from whom?" "Inherited from my—er r—that is to say, from my father-in-law."—Time.

We never fully understood the inner meaning of the term "horse sense" until we observed that the horse never docks his own tail.—Washington Post.

A young man known as "a gilded youth" sent the following note to a rich uncle the other night: "Not one word—if you do not send me $2000 before midnight I shall cease to live." A similar demand had been received earlier in the day, so the fond uncle replied: "In response to a former favor I have already forwarded you my revolver. It is in good condition and loaded."

Route to the West.

THE PHILADELPHIA AND READING ROAD PLANNING FOR ACTIVE RIVALRY.

The Philadelphia Record says that the Philadelphia and Reading railroad company is planning a new passenger route to the west, which will bring it into more active rivalry with the Pennsylvania railroad company. By the new arrangement the Reading road, instead of transferring passengers between New York and the West to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in Philadelphia, will take them to Harrisburg, across the Susquehanna river to the terminus of the Harrisburg and Potomac railroad; thence over the Western Maryland railroad to a point of connection with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at or near Cumberland. From there westward the Baltimore and Ohio will be used. The new route will be as short if not shorter than the Pennsylvania railroad route and will have many advantages.

The plan is that of President Corbin, and is likely to prove of considerable importance in trunk-line affairs. Under the present system the Reading's western passengers have to take the round-about route by way of Washington and Baltimore, and although a differential is allowed by the Trunk Line associations there can be no very close rivalry with the Pennsylvania railroad. When the new route shall be adopted no differential will be allowed, but it will be no longer needed. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad will have to agree to a shorter haul, but it is said no trouble will be made in this quarter. The Western Maryland road is deeply interested in the completion of these plans, which are sure to prove profitable to it.

The constructions necessary to throw open this new route will be a link across the Susquehanna river between the Reading and the Harrisburg and Potomac railroads, and the extension of the Western Maryland railroad from Williamsport, Md., to Cumberland. Both these works are soon to be begun. President Corbin, like President Gowen, is determined that the Reading shall be more than a coal road.

Carl Shurz has abandoned the idea of preparing a magazine sketch of Bismark, with whom he had many lively talks, as he has concluded that to rush into print with the knowledge he thus found would be a violation of their friendly intercourse.

To be Cheered by a Cash Dividend.

A PROMISE OF 3 PER CENT TO PREFERRED STOCKHOLDERS OF NORTHERN PACIFIC.

It has been decided by Messrs. Villard and Oats, who control the Northern Pacific Railway, that the preferred stockholders of the Northern Pacific will this Fall receive their first dividend in cash. What the dividend shall be of course depends upon the results of the year's work. Should the present estimates prove correct it will certainly not be less than 3 per cent. The present estimates call for a surplus of $600,000 over fixed charges. The surplus of previous years foots up about the same amount, which will make the total sum available for dividends something in the neighborhood of $1 200,000.

As the Company needs money for additional equipment and the improvement of its Pacific coast terminal property, the stockholders are to be asked to approve the creation of a $15,000,000 collateral trust loan. The security for this will be $6,000,000 of bonds of branch roads, now in the Company's treasury; $6,000 000 of bonds in terminal property, and $3,000,000 of other securities. The bonds enumerated will not be sold, as it is deemed unwise to sell them because of the income derived from them. The Company's unmortgaged property in Tacoma will form the basis for the second $6,000,000 of credit. Only sufficient bonds will be sold at once to make such improvement as are imperative.

The Disappointments in Politics.

Politics disappoint simply because we elect too much availability and too little knowledge. If people took more interest in politics, studied the history and science of government more, we should have far different law-making bodies, from the town council to the United States Senate, and better executives, from a ward alderman to president. The time will come when there will be no more disappointment in public life than any other calling, simply because men—the voters—will arrive at that stage of knowledge or learned selfishness when they can see that it does not pay to send indifferent men to high official place. Every station in life has its disappointments. Only five per cent of merchants succeed, and the average prevails in all other callings of life. The mountain top of success is not big enough for the world to dance on. It all depends on the ability of the contestant who gets up the sides. Men who deserve to succeed in official life do so. The failures are not Websters, but are those who want place in order to make a living. Taking, then, politics as a portion of the world's affairs, and the most important, it can be said that public life, in its highest sense, is worthy of the highest ambition.—Lancaster Examiner.

An Attack of Gravel.

The Terrible Suffering of a Woman at 60.—How She was Happily Cured.

"There is nothing I now enjoy that I do not owe to having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y. My trouble began in my kidneys and from which I never expected to recover. First there were pains in my back, I was feverish, with no appetite and could not sleep, I was compelled to use a cane, and finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was horrible. I was burning up with a fever or constantly shivering as if cold. My physicians said which was alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of Gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up my case, and I resigned myself to die. I had four doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Six years ago last June, how well I remember the time! I saw Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy advertised in our paper. After using one bottle I threw away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me. I have never had a return of Gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age I am as I was in my prime. I do all my own work, and rarely know what it is to be tired. I keep the medicine in the house and give it to my grandchildren, and recommend it whenever I can. What physicians and all of the various remedies I had taken could not do Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy did—it staged the disease and made me a strong, vigorous woman.

I HAD BRIGHT'S DISEASE,

Out of the Breastworks.

TATE SPRINGS, TENN., July 4, 1888.

The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.:

Gentlemen—Seven years ago I contracted an exceedingly bad case of blood poison. I tried a physician, the best at command, but secured no benefit. My throat began to get sore, and my body covered with sores and ulcers. Going from bad to worse, I felt that my grave must be reached in the near future. I gave up the doctors' treatment, and with a despairing hope I commenced taking your medicine. I began to improve from the first bottle, and in a short time the ulcers healed, and my skin cleared off and was entirely well.

One year ago a case of catarrh developed in my system. The physician did his best, but could not cure me; but two bottles of Swift's Specific gave me permanent relief.

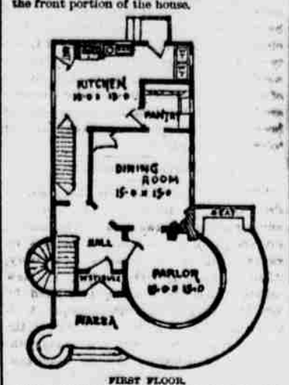
A HANDSOME RESIDENCE.

Plans and View of a Dwelling That Is Out of the Ordinary.

The plans and view of the house here given are taken from The Scientific American Architects and Builders' edition, which speaks of it as "A House of Moderate Cost," and says:

PERSPECTIVE VIEW.

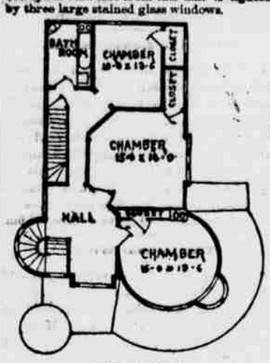
"Reference to the floor plans will show good arrangement of rooms. The parlor is almost circular in form, and is connected to the dining room by a sliding door; open fireplaces are in both rooms. Access from front to rear is gained without making a thoroughfare of any of the rooms, and when the passage doors are closed the kitchen is entirely cut off from the front portion of the house.



FIRST FLOOR.

"A piazza encircles the parlor, and on the right of the entrance the piazza roof terminates in a small circular tower; a seat under this provides a pleasant lookout.

"On the second floor the principal chamber is also circular, with a circular bay rising into a tower. There are two other good sized chambers and a bath room. The front hall on this floor is of large dimensions, with square bay to the front and seat therein. The spiral staircase from this hall is lighted by three large stained glass windows.



SECOND FLOOR.

"From whatever point the elevations may be viewed, their aspect is equally attractive, the combination of towers, bays and dormers making this residence particularly inviting.

"Size of structure, 45x27 feet, exclusive of piazza.

"For size of rooms, see floor plans.

It is said that the oldest rosebush in the world, of which there is authentic record, grows in a churchyard and against an old church at Hildersheim, Germany. Eight hundred years ago, so the records say, Bishop Hezilo caused a trellis to be built on which it was supported. Today the main stem is thicker than a man's body.

Hospital Remedies.

What are they? The growth of intelligence in medical matters has given rise to a demand for a class of genuine, reliable medicines. The opportunity of the ignorant quack, who grew rich curing everything out of a single bottle has passed. To supply satisfactorily this demand this list of remedies has been created. They are the favorite prescriptions of the most famous medical practioners of the day, gathered from the hospitals of London, Paris Berlin and Vienna. Prescriptions which cost the patients of these specialists from $25 to $100, are here offered, prepared and ready for use, at the nominal price of One Dollar Each. Not one of them is a cure all; each one has only the reasonable power of curing a single disease and each one keeps its contract. Sufferers from Catarrh, Diseased Lungs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Fever and Ague, Neuralgia, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa, or Nervous Debility, should send stamp for descriptive catalogue to Hospital Remedy Co., No. 3-3½ West King St., Toronto, Canada. If your druggist does not keep these remedies remit price and we will send direct free of duty.
